

Addendum 1: Wild Cat Organizations

Unfortunately, many species of wild cats are listed as “endangered” or “threatened,” with some even listed as “critically endangered” and “extinct in the wild,” meaning they are only found in captivity. Some species of wild cats have become totally extinct — lost from the Earth forever. If we do not take sufficient steps now to protect and preserve the remaining species of wild cats, they, too, will soon become extinct. Below is a list of organizations around the world that work to save wild cats, if you wish to support their efforts.
