

THEY HAD ME AT MEOW:
Tails of Love from the Homeless Cats of Buster Hollow
by Rosie Sorenson, MA, MFT, www.theyhadmeatmeow.com

Winner of the 2009 Muse Medallion Award from the Cat Writers' Association

They Had Me at Meow is a collection of stories and color photos of Rosie's fifteen-year relationship with a colony of homeless cats who have helped her recover from a long bout of chronic fatigue. She is using it to increase awareness about homeless cats as well as to raise funds for their care.

From the many enthusiastic reviews:

"...Rosie's They Had Me at Meow, is a must read and would make a purrfect gift for anyone who loves cats. The book is spattered with colorful pictures of entertaining kitties that enhance such honest writing." Maggie Funkhouser, Director of Communications and Public Relations, Alley Cat Rescue

"Rosie's encounters with these homeless cats are touching and comic. Rarely did I weep and if I did, it was with joy. Thank you, Rosie." Ed Asner, Emmy award-winning actor

"My husband tells me he wants to be reincarnated as my cat. I think I want to be reincarnated as yours. In the meantime, I'll take Buster. He's cute." Catherine Coulter, author of 59 New York Times bestsellers.

"Rosie's book is a loving, compassionate hymn of praise to those mysterious beings who clearly are on earth to teach us all about love. The book taught me a lot and gave me sheer delight. It is a superb paean to cats!" Jeffrey Moussaieff Masson, author of The Nine Emotional Lives of Cats, When Elephants Weep, Dogs Never Lie about Love.

"...It is also one of the best cat books I've read in years." Sally Rosenthal, book reviewer for Best Friends Animal Sanctuary Magazine
